Introduction

The North-West University's (NWU) Post-graduate Diploma in Management is offered by the NWU School of Business & Governance. For the past 35 years, the Faculty of Economic and Management Sciences of the NWU has delivered competent graduates to Southern Africa, who, in turn, make a proven contribution to the social- and economic growth in the region. The Business School has as its aim to provide professional post-graduate management and business training. The personnel corps of the Business School makes a concerted effort to conciliate theory and practice so that management's strategic leadership potential can be fully unlocked. The programme content and the standard of this diploma ensure that participants obtain expertise from management and business practices in order to confront local as well as international challenges.

Programme outcomes

After completion of this qualification, students should be able to demonstrate:

- knowledge of and engagement in the theories and principles of general management information, such as areas of accounting, information systems, economics, statistics, marketing, local governance, labour relations and human resource;
- the ability to select and use appropriate methods of identifying, researching and diagnosing management problems;
- the ability to produce appropriate interpersonal skills in various team-based activities of different organisations;
- the ability to select and use appropriate techniques of problem resolution, including developing, defending and implementing recommendations;
- analytical skills in the area of resource utilisations;
- the ability to contribute effectively to the formulation, implementation and review of policies, plans, and the design of accompanying control processes; and
- the ability to analyse your own leadership roles and the roles of others in management situations, to cope with change more effectively and be able to implement change in complex situations.

Duration

Students can only register in the first semester of the programme. The diploma stretches over one academic year, but learners will be allowed to complete the qualification over a two year period.

Assessments

The sub-minimum for examinations in all modules is 50%. For this qualification students will have to successfully complete all assessments to prove their knowledge and competence. A student will pass the examination in a particular module if a final module mark of at least 50% is attained, which is comprised of the average of the participation mark (50%) and the examination mark (50%).

Method of delivery

The NWU makes use of the eFundi Learning Management platform and therefore, access to the internet is a prerequisite. All communication to and from the lecturer will be on the eFundi platform. Classes are presented by interactive white board sessions and can be accessed through computer by connecting to Bridgit (Go to our website for steps on how to make use of Bridgit). This means you can attend classes in the comfort of your own home. The language of tuition is English.

Study material

Upon registration, your study material will be couriered to the delivery address you have provided on your application. Study material, and courier fees are part of your study fee and will be provided at no extra cost.
