INFORMATION ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

MODULES:

The following modules will be included in the master's programme in Industrial Psychology for 2021:

- LARM 871 Dissertation 100% for MCom/
82% for MA

LARM 874 Scientific Reasoning 18% for MA

PURPOSE OF THE DEGREE:

The MCom/MA degree in Labour Relations Management is offered to:

- provide learners with the competence to understand and evaluate labour relations theories and research.
- empower learners to use a wide variety of research methods and to cultivate scientific thinking and reasoning.
- enable learners to demonstrate critical thinking and to assimilate new field-related knowledge.
- promote life-long learning inculcating a sense of wonder, curiosity and respect for the scientific method in learners.
- provide learners with the competence to assess people and intervene on an advanced level within the work context to solve problems.

METHODOLOGY:

- Students who enrol for LARM 874 (Scientific Reasoning) should note that it is a prerequisite that this module be taken during the first year of study. ALL class sessions are compulsory. A learner who cannot attend a class needs to submit a written reason for not being able to do so. The student will be required to submit additional work (assignment or practical, for example) to make up for the time lost. This arrangement can only be made for a maximum of two classes.
- A variety of teaching methods are used, such as lectures, assignments, practical assignments, presentations and discussion groups.

EXAMINATION AND PASSING REQUIREMENTS:

Assessment takes place in the following formats:

- Written and oral tests and examinations;
- Individual and group projects;
- Verbal presentations;
- Assignments;
- Self- and peer assessments;
- Dissertation proposal and defence;
- A student must achieve 50% to pass a module (except where a different pass rate is indicated);
- A student must achieve an average of 75% to obtain the degree cum laude.

EXTERNAL MODERATION:

The Faculty appoints internal and external examiners as well as moderators in the case of written examinations. Examination committees review the performance of all the students. A different type of moderation is undertaken by the South African Board for People Practices.

The following process is used in the case of dissertations: The Scientific Research Committee approves a research proposal during a proposal meeting. Thereafter, an ethics application process is followed. Only after approval of the research proposal by the applicable Research Ethics Committee, the research study may commence. The Director of Research approves and comments on the research proposal before it is sent to the Faculty Board for title registration and approval of supervisor(s) and examiners. The supervisor plays a day-to-day role in guidance and integrated assessment. Finally, both internal and external examiners examine the dissertation and report to the management committee.

FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS:

Take note that the fees escalate annually. For more information, please visit the following link:

QUALIFICATION GUIDE

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS:

Prospective students in Industrial Psychology should adhere to the following admission requirements:

- Be in possession of a BA honours or BCom honours degree in Labour Relations Management, or have been granted BA/BCom honours status as approved by the Faculty Board;
- Meet all the core module (or similar modules) requirements of the primary part of the proposed MA/MCom study, namely: Research Methodology and Research Report, Applied Labour Relations, Advanced Labour Relations, Labour Market Principles, Human Capacity Development, Organisational Behaviour and Human Resource Strategies.
- Have passed the honours degree with an average of 65% and therefore qualify to be invited to the second phase of the selection process;
- Prospective students should also pass a selection process directed at the measurement of the competencies set for human resource and employment relations practitioners by the South African Board for People Practices.
- Students from other universities will be evaluated based on the outcomes and content of the programme they studied at the particular university. Diplomas or technicon degrees will not be acknowledged. Any other degree outside Labour Relations Management will not be considered for admission to the master's degree.

GENERAL APPLICATION INFORMATION:

See to it that you complete the form in full to prevent any delays. Qualifications that can be applied for in Labour Relations Management include:

- MCom Labour Relations Management: Qualification code: 5CFN01; Curriculum code: E801P.
- MA Labour Relations Management: Qualification code: 5FRP01; Curriculum code: E851P.
- The applicant does not need to identify a possible supervisor at the time of application.
- A prospective student should comply with the qualification requirements as stipulated in the academic yearbook and summarised in this document (see section 2.1).
- Applicants who do not comply with qualification prerequisites (as set out in section 2.1) do not qualify for the rest of the selection process. These applicants will be informed timeously (via e-mail) that they were unsuccessful.
- Applicants who do comply with the minimum requirements for the qualification will be informed, via e-mail, that they should attend the days of selection. Successful applicants will be informed well in advance of the selection days.
- If marks are still outstanding during the paper selection and even during the final selection, the successful applicant will receive conditional selection until final marks are available.
- The final admission decision can only be made after all outstanding documentation and proof have been received. In other words, only an applicant who passes his/her outstanding modules and degree can be considered.
- The final decision regarding admission is only made after the day of selection. Applicants will be informed within two weeks (after the day of selection), via e-mail, whether they were successful or not.
- The result of the selection process is final.
- Applicants should make sure that all contact details are correct, since they are contacted regularly via e-mail.
- If an applicant is invited to attend the selection days, it is the applicant's responsibility to attend. If the applicant does not attend, there will be NO second opportunity. Only candidates who attend the selection will be considered for admission.
- The selection is only valid for the year in which you apply, and is therefore not transferable to the next year.
- By applying for this qualification, the applicant acknowledges that he/she has read this document and is aware of the fact that he/she will be subjected to a selection process and all the mentioned prerequisites and information associated with it. Furthermore, the applicant also consents to be subjected to psychometrics, interviews and other individual and/or group exercises.

HOW DO I APPLY FOR MY MASTER'S DEGREE?

Closing date for Master's in Labour Relations Management is 31 August 2020.

No postponement will be granted.

- Applicants are requested to apply online.
- The NWU application form together with all the necessary information is available on the NWU webpage at (use Firefox/Google Chrome when opening the link):
<http://www.nwu.ac.za/content/application-master-doctorate-studies>

- Students from other universities have to ensure that all documentation as requested is attached to the application form. The School of Industrial Psychology and Human Resource Management emphasises the importance of the following documentation without which the application cannot be processed:

- Official academic record(s).
- Specific outcomes (aims) of modules/content covered in previous qualification(s).

VERY IMPORTANT: Make sure that all e-mail addresses and telephone numbers on your application form are correct. The School of Industrial Psychology and Human Resource Management contacts you on the e-mail address as shown on your application forms. If this information is incorrect or not available, you will not receive the necessary information to be able to successfully complete the selection process. The School will also then not be able to accommodate you if you (because of this) do not attend the selection or if you have missed any other important information.

Once you have applied online, please notify the School of Industrial Psychology and Human Resource Management.
